

LIGHT EMITTING DIODE HAVING AN ADHESIVE LAYER AND A REFLECTIVE LAYER AND MANUFACTURING METHOD THEREOF

Abstract

A light emitting diode having an adhesive layer and a reflective layer and a manufacturing method thereof featured by adhering together a light emitting diode stack and a substrate having a reflective metal layer by use of a transparent adhesive layer so that the light rays directed to the reflective metal layer can be reflected therefrom to improve the brightness of the light emitting diode.